I read an interesting article in the Berliner Zeitung yesterday regarding your involvement with professional athletes and your intention to support them in dealing with mental training – coping with abusive / racist fans, etc.

As a Psychologist and Mental Trainer – Coach, I am very interested in joining your team in delivering support services for athletes. Your sport consultancy-company and services could not come at a more opportune time.

My specialization is assisting professionals in maximizing their performance levels, adapting to high level stress situations and personal adjustment development.

Having worked as a sports development consultant and coach, I can offer your company and clients the following:

I deliver my services in the USA, Middle East and Europe.

In closing, I would like to discuss the opportunity to work for your organization and present programs – materials I use with professional athletes – especially foreign athletes working in Germany.

May I have an appointment with you in your Berlin office. I live in Berlin and maintain a very flexible schedule.
